The Club gave three cheers for the new uniform, the Band played " Hail Columbia;" and as Capt. Chamberlain passed along the ranks he was saluted by clapping of hands by the company.

Upon Euclid street the residence of Judge Andrews was brilliantly illuminated. The Wide Awakes filed into the yard and formed a circle in front of the house, and three cheers were given for Judge Andrews. He responded in an eloquent little speech. He said that his duties caused him to be much retired from the political contest, but he did men thus banded together. It was high time for Northern rights to be upheld, and for Northern votes to be so cast as to secure those rights. He had no apprehensions as to disunion, because if our brethren of the South have any difficulty in preserving the same old system that has already flooded the country down town, a hickory walking stick.
